

Drew Schiller

Drew Schiller co-founded Validic and serves as the CEO. At Validic, Drew leads the corporate strategy, drives key initiatives, and works closely with senior executives at client and partner organizations to stay ahead of the innovation curve.

Additionally, Drew sits on the Consumer Electronics Association (CEA) Health & Fitness Technology Board and contributes to CEA Health & Fitness subcommittees on Interoperability, Privacy and Security, and Standards. Drew is also a member of the eHealth Initiative Leadership Council and participates in the initiative's Interoperability Workgroup.

Before co-founding Validic, Drew started and managed an award-winning web development firm for eight years. He also previously founded and exited a niche dietary nutrition website for patients with celiac disease.
